PDF GUIDE + WORKSHEETS

Deep work.

A short, practical guide for the study session that keeps slipping away. This sample includes the first two chapters and a page from the session planner.

> “Focus is not a personality trait. It is a room you learn to prepare.”

Before the session

Remove the obvious friction. One tab. One book. One question.

One clear target

Write the target in a sentence. If you cannot, the session is not ready.

SAMPLE PAGES

The ten-minute review.

At the end of a session, write three answers: what moved forward, what is still unclear, and the first action next time. The next session starts with a handover, not a blank page.

Session sheet

One clear target: _____

What I will ignore: _____

Start time: _____ End time: _____

What moved forward: _____

Still unclear: _____

First action next time: _____

A small rule: a study session is finished when the next one is easier to start.
